DETAILED ACTION

Election/Restrictions

Applicant's election without traverse of Species I (Figure 3, and page 4, line 12 through page 9, line 7) corresponding to claims 1, 4, 7, 10, 13, 16, and 19 in the reply filed on April 29, 2005 is acknowledged.

Information Disclosure Statement

The information disclosure statement (IDS) submitted on January 22, 2004 is in compliance with the provisions of 37 CFR 1.97. Accordingly, the information disclosure statement has been considered by the examiner.

Claim Objections

Claims 1 and 4 are objected to because of the following informalities:

Regarding claim 1, the recitation "...CRC code..." lacks antecedent basis. Examiner suggests the acronym be defined at least once in the claims as "...cyclic redundancy code (CRC)...".

Regarding claim 4, the recitation "...a fourth CRC code..." lacks antecedent basis since there exists no recitation of a second or third CRC codes in parent claims. Appropriate correction is required.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Art Unit: 2651

Claims 1, 4, 7, 10, and 13 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Riches et al U.S. Patent Application Publication No. 2002/0035695.

Regarding claim 1, Riches et al disclose a recording medium cartridge (4) comprising a recording medium (4a) and a cartridge memory (3), wherein a first CRC code produced from data recorded in the recording medium (page 1, paragraphs 6 and 23) is recorded in the cartridge memory in an un-rewritable state (page 1, paragraph 26 and page 3, paragraph 86).

Regarding claims 4 and 7, Riches et al disclose a recording/reproducing apparatus (2) for recording/reproducing a recording medium cartridge (4) comprising a CRC code comparing means which compares a fourth CRC code produced from data recorded in the recording medium with a first CRC code corresponding to the data recorded in the cartridge memory (3) and an authentication determining means which determines authentication of data recorded to the recording medium based on a comparison result of a CRC code comparing means, wherein the first CRC code and the fourth CRC code accord in a comparison result by the CRC code comparing means, the authentication determining means judges that recorded data in the recording medium is authentic (i.e. valid) and wherein the first CRC code and the fourth CRC code do not accord in the comparison result by the CRC code comparing means, the authentication determining means judges that the recorded data in the recording means judges that the recorded data is not authentic (page 1, paragraph 19, page 2, paragraphs 46-49, and page 5, paragraph 113).

Regarding claims 10 and 13, Riches et al disclose a recording medium cartridge (4) wherein the recording medium (4b) is an optical or magnetic tape (page 1, paragraphs 1 and 2).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 16 and 19 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Riches et al U.S. Patent Application Publication No. 2002/0035695 in view of Malakapalli et al U.S. Patent No. 6,467,060.

Regarding claims 16 and 19, Riches et al disclose a recording medium cartridge with all the limitations of claim 1 as discussed above including the recording medium being a tape medium but fail to show the recording medium being a magnetic or an optical disk.

However, Malakapalli et al disclose an error detecting data storage device that uses cyclic redundancy codes (CRC) for the purpose of detecting and correcting errors (i.e. authenticating) of data recorded on a storage medium (column 2, lines 18-59). Malakapalli et al further disclose that the device is used for error detection and correction (i.e. authentication) of data recorded on a magnetic or optical disk medium (column 14, lines 38-43).

Therefore it would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to use other types of media such as a magnetic disk or an optical disk with the data authentication disclosed by Riches et al since it is considered well-known in the art to use a disk instead of a tape and no unexpected result is to occur.
